

N.Y. Feb 24, 1887

My Dear Mr. Spooner,

I seem to have neglected you: but the truth is, I have no had a moment to myself since I last saw you. I have been ___ by night & day & ___ ever evenmy.

Mr. Thompson is inaccessible as far as I am concerned— that is, I have not had achance to see her. I am only resting today & I am on again as a ___ - so longer lecture tour than my last.

When I return if it is not too late I shall do what I can for the able essay you read to me.

Very truly Yours,
James Redpath.